

Ways to supplement your income: Teaching Assistant

Business model	Qualities required	Training required	If you're not sure yet...	Typical working hours	Location	Regulatory requirements	Projected income
Teaching assistants support class teachers with supervision, planning, tutoring and paperwork. Some teaching assistants work specifically with a child or children with special educational needs and/or disabilities (SEND).	A love of working with children. Enthusiasm, empathy, compassion, motivation, creativity. Communication skills, organisation skills.	Each school sets their own requirements, and this will depend on the teaching assistant level. Some schools offer training on the job.	Why not consider applying to be a lunchtime supervisor first? This could fit well around your childminding business and help you to decide whether a teaching assistant role is right for you.	Monday to Friday, during term-time. Working days are often based around the core hours of 8am to 4pm. However, there can be part-time roles available.	Primary, secondary or special education schools. Some TA roles are based within a specific class, while some may support children across the whole school or year group.	Teaching assistants require an enhanced DBS check.	Teaching assistant roles vary from first level to high-level roles. Salaries vary from around £16K to £26K depending on the teaching assistant level required, qualifications, experience and area you work in.